

Headline: New Cover, New Era: MLB The Show 25

Byline: Sean McQuillan, Staff Writer

Social: The Future Faces of the MLB Have Arrived... on a Video Game Cover

---

A Steel City phenom, a Charm City slugger and a Cincy cyclone. Paul Skenes, Gunnar Henderson, and Elly De La Cruz headline this year's edition of the MLB The Show 25 video game.

Each player has quickly become the "poster boy" of their respective franchise. The fact that none of the athletes are older than 24 years old is even more mind-blowing, as Fernando Tatis Jr. is the only other younger cover athlete in the game's history.

Last season, all three of the athletes on the MLB the Show 25 cover were first-time All-Stars and top 20 MVP finalists. Henderson, the oldest of the three, was named the 2023 American League Rookie of the Year at the age of 23 years and seven months.

De La Cruz, who turned 23 this past January, was the youngest All-Star selection since Wayne Simpson in 1970 earned an All-Star selection. Skenes, who will turn 23 in May, was voted National League Rookie of the Year in November of last year after making his big-league debut and finished as a runner-up for the National League Cy Young Award.

On March 18, the game's 20th edition is available to the general public. The new game will become available on the Nintendo Switch, Xbox Series X/S and Sony PlayStation 5.